

Mission Statement

Hello, my name is Deyshawn Glover. I'm a student at the University of South Carolina studying Computer Science. There are two things I'm passionate about. One of them is video games because ever since I was a kid and thanks to my uncle, I always liked to play video games. It was always fun for me. Another thing I'm passionate about is technology itself. It was always interesting to me how technology evolves every year. I've always liked different technology and how it works. My goal someday is to find a nice, steady job and maybe as a hobby I will work towards creating my own video game.
